

Herb Society of America
Delaware Valley Unit
Presents

The Natural Web, Seeing Nature's Connections

A presentation by Mary Anne Borge
Of
Bowman's Hill Wildflower Preserve and Lambertville Goes Wild

Sunday, October 21, 2018, 1pm

Holcombe Jimison Farmstead
Admission $10

Light refreshments will be served
And Farmstead tours will be available after the talk.

As a volunteer naturalist at Bowman's Hill Wildflower Preserve, Ms. Borge has studied the fascinating interchange between native plants and animals. See how plants provide food and shelter for animals, while animals help plants survive through pollination, seed dispersal, and more. Her superb photographs will give examples of these close relationships which we can adapt to our own gardens and so enrich our neighborhoods for a healthier community. She is the associate editor of Butterfly Gardener Magazine and one of the founders of LambertvilleGoesWild. Check them out on facebook or website: LambertvilleGoesWild.weebly.com

www.delvalherbs.org

Any questions?

Email terrya.cooper@verizon.net

Location information:

www.holcombe-jimison.org

